Young Suitor Hunted; Autopsy Bares Blows on Hacked Body

ETHEL ZUCKERMAN

Take two cups of this and a spoonful of that . . . a small, unloathed chicken farm . . . a rain-drenched man making 10 loaves of stale bread . . . two unwrapped cup cakes . . . and a long knife, without a fingerprint, transfixing the throat of an 18-year-old girl.

All mixed up like the ingredients of a cake.
They were clues today in the baffling "bake shop murder" of pretty Ethel Zuckerman, an ambitious, home-loving South End girl, slain in the store where she was trying to earn enough for a college education.

The full force of Boston detectives, 60 in number, stirred them up and put them in the oven to bake—and hoped the finished product would be solution of a crime that is as great a mystery as it is an atrocity.

FINGERED TO FLOOR
A master baker or a Sherlock Holmes, one or the other, was needed.

There is no apparent motive for the murder of Ethel Zuckerman, the bake shop girl found last night on the floor of the store in Harrison ave. with a 24-inch bread knife plunging her to the floor by the throat. There was no robbery and there was no criminal attack.

Two knives were used in the attack and one was shattered—yet neither bore a fingerprint.
A wound on a victim's forehead was shaped like a cross—a bizarre significance except that it indicates

WHAT TO SELECT for Christmas gifts is the question that millions are asking, even now when Christmas shopping should be finished.

Children should get toys, and don't tell them that there is no Santa Claus. Nobody interferes with your pleasant superstitions and comforting fables.

To a woman past fifty, give something ornamental, jewelry, a piece of fur, a fine piece of lace, something to make it clear that you wish to give pleasure.

Do not imitate the farmer and his sons in Davenport's cartoon, that gave the wife and mother a new axe to chop wood.

Include among your gifts something that will be remembered, something of which the recipient will say, "Twenty years hence, 'That was given

EXTRA GRILL FATHER OF SIX IN SLAYING

John Wheldon of 26 Sherman st., Roxbury, former taxi driver and father of six children, was held for questioning about the "bake shop murder" of Ethel Zuckerman this afternoon. He admitted having been in the store, shortly before the crime was discovered, to buy stale bread for chickens but said the girl was alive when he left. Police were inclined to believe him. The hunt for "Dicky Brown," an admirer of the girl, was intensified and police were sent to search a West End house for him following new evidence that she refused to meet a suitor last night. A partial autopsy revealed the victim had been terribly beaten as well as stabbed.

Atlas Tack Directors Quizzed on Crash

While company directors were being questioned in New York, investigators of the Federal Trade Commission arrived in Boston to begin the government probe of the Atlas tack fiasco here.

The directors were questioned by Asst. Atty.-Gen. Ambrose V. McCall in New York. McCall, it was learned, wants to know how much knowledge Roosevelt had of the transactions in the company's stock.

Roosevelt became a director of the Atlas corporation, McCall declared, after its reorganization. McCall also revealed that George Graham Rice, well known in Boston and who has just completed a term in Atlantic, phoned for an interview today.

McCall sought to disavow any connection with Atlas Tack. Such remarks, he said, were apparently based on the fact that a former Boston associate of his was connected with the sale of the stock.

However, a rumor of a connection with Rice and a former associate had much to do with the premature break in the issue—a break that came before the pool had grasped the meaning of the transaction.

PROBE OTHER STOCKS
Meanwhile, the Atlas Tack revelations have brought three more issues under scrutiny. They are Bayou Cigars, Inc., Calumet Corporation and the Atlantic States Paper Corp., all of which were included in the investigation.

Other Federal Trade Commission investigators have already reported to Chief Investigator Baldwin & Shaw in Washington on the first complaint which was received in connection with the Boston promotion of the Atlas stock.

Similar complaints have been received before the Federal Trade Commission by the Bureau of Consumer Affairs, which is the director of the Blue Sky Division of the Massachusetts Public Utilities Department.

The complaint tells a story of a man who was told that he was to receive a large sum of money before the Senate finance committee under Ferdinand Pecora.

The report given Bane today showed that a man representing Shall Our Markets Profit Defaulter France?

FRANCE—War-time suppliant for loans, for food, for munitions, for troops!

France—Debtor to the United States for national preservation, debtor for food for her civil population, for munitions, for armies of American troops!

France—Post-war debtor to the United States for loans to restore her credit, support her currency and reconstruct her devastated areas, a promisor of repayment, a beggar for the reduction of our claims, forgetful of the immeasurable benefits received at our hands.

But this is not all. It is only a partial picture of La Belle France.

France—Defaulter as debtor, repudiator of pledges, subtle twister of facts, using Germany's refusal to pay reparations as a "phony" excuse for her own default to the United States.

THE PICTURE IS NOT YET COMPLETE!

France—Tavist racketeer, while winning solicitously for an enlarged share of the newly revived American market for wines and liquors!

It is time that the attitude of the United States toward France and the mutual dealings of the French and American people were made the FIRST ITEM IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY'S BUSINESS, and OF EVERY DAY'S BUSINESS, until our position with relation to this DEBTOR AND DEFAULTER is put upon a basis that conforms with the record and is compatible with American self-respect.

The third semi-annual payment of interest on the French debt, amounting to $22,000,000, has just been defaulted without explanation or excuse. The arrears of France to this country for interest alone, to say nothing of the principal of her dishonored debt, is more than $60,000,000.

Despite this shabby record, and with an effrontery that has no parallel, the FRENCH GOVERNMENT has just ASSESSED AMERICAN COMPANIES DOING BUSINESS IN FRANCE in the sum of $122,000,000 under a DOUBLE-TAXATION LAW, although an AGREEMENT

GANG LEADER, AND JAILER DEFER JURY ACQUITTAL

Coup by Prosecution

Story Be Read

BULLETIN
The law took less than four hours to change down again on Steve Gustin and his co-defendant, Frank P. Sullivan, who were freed today on charges of assault with intent to murder.

The indictment was returned by the grand jury of the Superior Court for the County of Suffolk, Mass., on charges of assault with intent to murder.

Steve Gustin "beat the rap" again. Steve, who signs himself Wallace, and who as Public Enemy No. 3 has the dubious honor of leading the list of living public enemies in police lists, was acquitted by a change of jury today—this time on a charge of murderous assault upon Patrolman Daniel J. McDonald.

Although positively identified by the permanent jury panel as the man who shot and killed McDonald, Gustin was acquitted by the new jury.

McDonald's testimony was discounted by the admission he had been so badly beaten by the gang that he was not a competent witness.

CHRISTMAS BUSINESS SHOWS BIG GAINS THROUGHOUT U. S.

NEW ENGLAND STORES SALES LEAP UPWARD PARADE

Buyers in Hailing Return of Happy Days, Favor Purchase of Useful Gifts With Toys for Children

By the Associated Press.

The cash registers of the merchants in America's principal cities apparently are playing a happy pre-holiday tune of better business.

Buyers are laying their money on the counters for Christmas goods in larger numbers than they did a year ago, an unofficial survey revealed today, leaving retailers with the impression that there is a Santa Claus after all.

All sections of the country reported business "on the up and up." The gains as compared with last year ran from just a trifle to as high as 35 and 50 per cent.

Thus it is that the men with the dollars in many instances are going in for practical and useful gifts. But still, the survey revealed, he is buying. The survey by sections shows:

NEW ENGLAND GAINS

NEW ENGLAND—Retail sales in Massachusetts show gain of 17 per cent last month as compared with November 1932. This index figure compiled from reports of retailers in 17 cities and towns representing eight major commodity groups. State Recovery board points to this gain as significant as November of last year had five shopping days, including a Saturday after Thanksgiving.

This year retailers did not receive the benefit of post-Thanksgiving pre-Christmas buying. On Dec. 13 one retailer reported large sale, but in latter count in history of store, indication that December would receive volume usually obtained after Thanksgiving in November.

Automotive sales show greatest gains, although temporarily there is a slight recession. This is attributed to completion of 1933 sales and dealers waiting for new 1934 models.

was reached between the United States ambassador and M. Tardieu, the French premier, in the spring of 1932, ABOLISHING THIS FORM OF TAXATION.

The agreement was ratified by the United States Senate in June, 1932, but—and here is a little "out" for slippery France—it was never ratified by the French parliament.

NOW, FORTUNATELY we have in our hands a means of self-assertion which we SHOULD NOT HESITATE a moment to UTILIZE TO ITS FULLEST POSSIBILITIES!

The repeal of prohibition in this country has opened the greatest market in existence to the producers of wines and liquors throughout the world.

France is one of the greatest producers of these commodities. She has for years looked forward longingly to the recovery of the American market for these products of her vine. She has watched the process of repeal with eager calculation of its benefits to her wine growers and merchants.

Well, another guess is coming to her. She is entitled to no consideration at our hands!

WE MUST CLOSE THE GATES OF THIS MARKET TO FRANCE! And it must be done at once!

Her wines are good, but so are the wines of California and other regions of the United States. To bar the importation of French wines would be no privation to our people. On the contrary, it would be a means of deserved encouragement to our own growers and producers.

AND IT WOULD BE AN ACT OF CONSIGN REIBUTION OF JUST REQUITUAL TO FRANCE—THE BAD DEBTOR, THE CALLOUS DEFAULTER, THE THANKLESS BENEFICIARY OF AMERICAN GENEROSITY.

Reorganized Party to Make a Cautious Fight on Roosevelt

By GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, Dec. 21 (INS)—A through reorganization of the Republican party will take place before the presidential campaign of 1936, according to party leaders now gathering here for the opening session of Congress.

In this reorganization, former President Herbert Hoover will play little part. Those who have conferred with him recently in California say that he is no longer politically ambitious, and is reconciled to the idea that the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1936 must go elsewhere.

Topical issues were subjected to frank analysis by ex-Senator Walter Dill of New Jersey, frequently mentioned as the next chairman of the Republican national committee. But there will be no change in the chairmanship until after the congressional elections next year.

Present at the conference were Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, himself a potential candidate for the nomination in 1936, and others.

Three of those present, including Senator Reed, recently visited Mr. Hoover in California. The former President was in agreement that party reorganization was necessary before the next national election, and what is more significant, that he himself was "out of the picture."

Paris Must Agree Not to Discriminate on American Goods

Washington, Dec. 21 (INS)—Striking back at France for its attempt to put out over an American trade negotiator, the United States today moved to cut off entirely the flow of French wine into this country.

The Federal Alcohol Control Administration announced the French wine quota was exhausted.

In state department quarters it was made known no more French wine would be permitted to enter the country until France clears up the situation which has developed in connection with American fruit exports to France.

The impasse with France has developed over the question of increasing the quota on French wine in return for more favorable treatment for American fruit products, especially apples and pears.

France agreed to increase the quota on apples and pears in return for an increased quota on wine. After an agreement had been reached and the quotas were about to go into effect, word leaked out in Paris that the French intended, after the new quotas became effective, to slap an additional duty on American fruit products which would tend to nullify the benefits of the increased quota.

SPY CLUE LEADS TO NEW YORK

Paris, Dec. 21 (INS)—Possibility that Lydia Stahl, mysterious Russian schoolteacher named by police as the alleged spy, was uncovered here extended her far-flung activities into the United States, arose tonight.

With two Americans under arrest and police investigating the possible participation of a third United States citizen, officials of the French secret police communicated with New York and Washington in an effort to trace Lydia Stahl's movements in the United States.

Matter of a dozen languages, Miss Stahl remained the pivotal point of investigation into the spy ring believed to have had international ramifications.

She received large quantities of mail from the United States and from Japan, police revealed.

The United States Embassy and the Consulate continued to press themselves in the case against Robert Gordon, Swiss of East Orange, N. J., and his wife, a Vassar graduate, held as alleged ring leaders of the espionage conspiracy.

Daniel C. Mulloy, president of the closed Federal National Bank, withdrew pleas of not guilty to four indictments before Judge Hugh L. McLean in U. S. Court today.

Pleas in abatement and demurrer and motions to quash were made.

The indictments charge mismanagement of the bank's funds, false reports to the Controller of the Currency and a conspiracy with Theodore M. Logan in manipulation of funds.

Mulloy acted on advice of counsel, Marvin Taylor, so that dilatory pleas may be filed. The court ruled out several requests of Mulloy to have the government submit lists of particulars in other indictments.

AMEE, SING DAVE, SAYS CRUELITIES FRACTURED HER SKULL

EVANGELIST CLAIMS CHORUS GIRLS PETTED HUBBY

Battling Gospelite Gives Court Long List of Mental Affronts in Her Suit for Divorce

Los Angeles, Dec. 21 (INS).—A bitter court battle for divorce loomed today between Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist of Angelus Temple, and her husband, David Hutton, Jr., former temple choir singer and now master of ceremonies in a night club here.

The golden haired evangelist charged Hutton with a long list of mental cruelties in a cross-complaint to Hutton's suit.

David, she charged, tried to ruin Angelus Temple; allowed himself to be photographed "with scantily clad chorus girls, whom he permitted to caress and kiss him," and billed himself as "Aimee's man," because he wanted "cheap publicity" in his new career as vaudeville entertainer.

Sister Aimee's cross-complaint was filed only a few hours before she arrived home for the Christmas holidays.

MENTAL ANGUISH CHARGES

The fighting evangelist accused her portly spouse of causing her mental anguish and humiliation in the Myrtle St. John Pierre breach of promise suit filed three days after Aimee and Dave were married. He insisted that she pay the $2000 judgment won by Miss St. Pierre, a pretty nurse, Aimee declared, and often awakened her in the middle of the night demanding money "which I know you have hidden away."

Further, he threatened to amend his divorce complaint and make additional unpleasant charges against her unless she consented to a property settlement.

CRUELITIES LISTED

Sister Aimee denied all the allegations in David's complaint, sought the return of her former name, Aimee Semple McPherson, and listed the following alleged mental cruelties:

1. Miss St. Pierre's love balm suit grew out of actions by Hutton prior to the marriage of the parties hereto, and unknown and unsuspected by Mrs. Hutton.

2. When the jury gave Miss St. Pierre a judgment, Hutton "cruelly, ruthlessly and deliberately" abused the news to Mrs. Hutton when she was gravely ill in her Moorish Temple home at Lake Balnear, causing her to "faint and fall in such a manner as to fracture her skull and cause a permanent disability."

3. He insisted that a pre-nuptial agreement be abrogated because he wanted the silver, furniture and other personal property at Angelus Temple.

4. He demanded that Sister Aimee discharge all the officials and charge board at Angelus Temple and place him in complete charge. This caused her "displeasure and ill health."

5. David embarrassed and humiliated her by obtaining vaudeville engagements, "despite the fact that she had been a loyal and dutiful wife."

She asserted the thought of divorce, but because of Hutton's conduct, she found it impossible to carry on her religious work in a dignified and successful manner, she asserted.

Sister Aimee concluded her cross-complaint with the statement that she had been "a loyal and dutiful wife." She asserted the thought of divorce, but because of Hutton's conduct, she found it impossible to carry on her religious work in a dignified and successful manner, she asserted.

Johnson Urges Anti-CWA Red Lowell Take Movie Post
New Plea From Chief of NRA to Retired Harvard Head
Moran standards for the movies may still be the case of Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard, although he sent a letter to Gen. Hugh R. Johnson of the NRA today, declining appointment as presidential member of the Motion Picture Industry Code Authority.

Gen. Johnson was loath to accept Dr. Lowell's decision as final, and wrote another letter urging the latter to change his mind, and explaining in detail the opportunities for constructive work that the general believes exist.

It is understood that Gen. Johnson's action is based on the expressed wishes of the President to have Dr. Lowell accept the post.

Dr. Lowell is considered an authority in the motion picture field since he accepted the chairmanship of the Motion Picture Research Council last August.

The educator's objection to serving under the NRA is said to be based on the grounds that the post would be only advisory and would carry no authority.

New York, Dec. 21 (AP).—Among the first-class passengers sailing on the liner Hamburg for Europe was Paska, a Pekinese dog. Her owner, Lady Francis Hatfield, of London and Paris, values her at $4000.

Lady Hatfield sailed with her pet from France to South America. Arriving at Jamaica, Paska was denied entry, because dogs, other than English, are "undesirable aliens."

Lady Hatfield shipped Paska to New York to go home in the cabin of a second officer, while she goes on to South America.

BETTER LABOR RULES GIVEN
Chicago, Dec. 21 (AP).—Secretary of Labor Perkins has a program for the improvement of labor which, if adopted, she says, would "pay dividends in production and in health satisfaction to the individual workers."

She outlined her program before the Railway Labor Executives Association at the following:

Permanent limitation of hours of work.

Prohibition of child labor.

Standard minimum wages for women.

Requirement of safe and health working conditions.

Provision for aged workers.

Some form of unemployment reserves.

Adequate workmen's compensation laws.

Free public employment bureaus.

Stronger administration of labor laws.

Steps to make permanent improved labor conditions.

62 Detectives Hunt Killer Whose Knife Nails Girl to Floor

A dumb animal is "stuck" over an argument about 20 cents.
Two men really are sought—one "Dicky Brown," who might have been in love with Ethel—one strange figure known as "Walton" or "Walton," who once drove a taxi cab but now has a little shabby car somewhere, perhaps a Buick or a Buick.

The latter is the one police are most anxious to interview as a result of two stories told by the girl's employer, Hyman Blotnick, and George Maylof, who lives next door to the girl's home, a sweet tooth that demands cake just before he retires at night.

SAW MAN ENTER

Maylof was in the store about a half hour before Ethel was found slain, at his story comes first. "I went into the store just a minute or two after 8:30 last night. The girl was there all alone. I went down to get a cake so I could have a bite to eat before I went to bed."

"It took me some time to make up my mind what I wanted. I looked around."
"I was over behind one of the cases and I heard the door open and a man came in. He couldn't see me, but I watched him go to where Ethel was standing and I heard him say, 'Are you all alone?' Ethel said, 'Yes.'"

"He didn't say any more. I stepped from behind the counter with my cake. He took a quick look at me and then turned his back while Ethel wrapped the cake up for me. He kept his face from me, hunched up. I had in mind he was wet and cold."

"I went out of the store and left the two together. That must have been 9:10 or 9:15. A half hour later I noticed the excitement and then I heard Ethel had been killed."

"He didn't, however, tell his story until today after Blotnick told the story that dovetailed with his. "Ethel telephoned me at 9:30 at my home," Blotnick said. "She said there was a man in the store who wanted to leave a loaf of stale bread. He wants me to give him two cents off on each loaf. I have told him I can't but he says he knows you."

"Apparently they had had an argument," went on the proprietor. "She never called me on anything trivial and she knew I went to bed at 10 o'clock in order to be at work at 4. She said, 'You better talk with him,' and I said, 'Put him on.'"

"He got on the phone and described himself as a man who knew by sight from coming in for two years getting stale bread. I always understood it was for his chicken."

"There is another thing. Every time this Waldron came for the stale bread he would buy two cakes to eat. Mostly he bought nine-cent cakes. Last night, the murder happened around 10:15—just before."

"I never knew his name until last night. Up until a few months ago he used to drive a red cab up here for the bread. When he came on the phone I said, 'Who is this talking?' I understood him to say his name was Waldron or Walton. I am pretty sure he said 'Walton.'"

"A third baker followed him upstairs to see if he was going to pay for the bread and saw him re-enter the store. This may have been after 10 o'clock. The murder happened around 10:15—just before."

"The man Maylof saw and the man Blotnick talked with and described are the same, I am convinced."

"We have learned that after talking on the phone, this Waldron went out and downstairs."

WHY NOT ME? CRIES MOTHER

There were scenes of deep pathos in the Zuckerman home today, and while the father walked aimlessly about, the mother intermittently screamed loudly.

There, on the sidewalk, was gathered a group of sympathetic friends, tears streaming down their faces. The district was in a furor over the slaying.

"Why wasn't it me?" cried Mrs. Zuckerman, verging on hysteria.

"Why wasn't it me?"

And the father, peeling back and forth, would beat his chest and stare vacantly, his face streaked with anguish.

Her voice broken by continuous sobs, the mother continued her lamentations:

"Why wasn't it me, instead of Ethel? My poor little girl was too young to die. She was too good. She was too honest. She was too pure. She had her whole life before her."

Then, pointing to the kitchen door, she cried out dramatically:

"She went through that door at a quarter to six last night, happy and laughing, and said, 'No long, Mother! I'll see you later. I'll be back a little before ten.'"

"But she didn't come back. She didn't come back. Oh, why did they have to kill her?"

The only four ever expressed by her daughter, the mother added, were their intonations of moving toward the West End; to the section where they formerly lived.

"She said to me, 'I must stay here. Dicky lives in Allen st., and I don't want to go back and be near him. I don't know who Dicky is and I don't know who he is afraid of. I don't want to see him any more. I don't think my daughter has any steady boy friends. She didn't have any steady boys with them. She always came directly from work, and either read or helped me."

HUNDREDS OF PLEAS STILL UNANSWERED

With appeals from destitute children and grown-ups piling up with every mail the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund faces a herculean task in providing all who ask with a Yuletide basket.

Hundreds of pleas from men and women, many of them actually hungry, are being received daily with only four more days left for the Boston Goodfellow to do their bit toward making the child and heartbroken mother happy on the day of day.

Picked at random, here is a letter from a 12-year-old girl: "We feel humiliated in requesting you not to overlook us on Christmas and send us a basket. Mother had been out of work for two years and Daddy is dead. Please don't make it a dark Christmas for us and turn us down now."

A woman writes: "I am only a poor woman myself but I know I will have a Christmas dinner so I'm sending you a dollar to send a basket to some unfortunate family. Please make me happy by doing this."

Among the latest contributions to the basket fund was $175 sent in by the employees of the East Boston district Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The following are some of the checks still awaiting a goodfellow's attention:

3 Eligible for Fall River P. O. Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Post Office department announced today that the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund.

From the stroke of midnight until after the midnight hour, they were treated to a splendid program of entertainment by stars of the footlights, radio and concert stage.

When the last act had ended, the Basket Fund had been given a substantial impetus, thus assuring that many more children still awake next Monday to find it Christmas and not just the day after Christmas.

Starting with an overture by the Metropolitan Orchestra under the direction of Fabian, the evening was continued with songs, dances, comedy skits, music and still more music.

High on the list of favorites were Val & Arnie Stanton, a comedy team now playing the theater; Nick Parayakoff, the Key Jewelry Co.'s "Greek Orator," and Hum and Strum, New England radio favorites with their accompanist, Benny McLaughlin.

In addition to the Stanton, the Metropolitan theater was represented by their own chorus line. The Metropolitan Vandeville Exchange offered as their contribution, Wally Brown, a competent master of ceremonies and Alice O'Leary, from the Scollay square theater, came Haynes and Rick, clever comedians.

The Park theater ensemble presented a series of five specialties which went over with a bang. From the tight-rope dancer Joe Ritzler, Lou Ashe and the girls of the Caesars Revue; Fanny Weeks, Sia and Buddy Roberts and James Dunn of the Coconut Grove.

Others on the program were Kay Payne, NBC artist; Sandy and his Hip-De-Do Band; Hyde and Mona, comedy team; the Prim sisters of the radio, who are scheduled for an appearance with Ben Bernie next week; the Cosmopolitans, a musical act from WNAC; the Blendere, a quartet; and Billy Glauson, master of ceremonies.

GUSTIN IS ACQUITTED

Then her eyes filled with tears. She was Mrs. Susan J. Wallace. She was the only woman in the courtroom. About fifty men were there. He jury took the case at 1:15 yesterday afternoon. They were deadlocked for nearly 18 hours.

At 10:30 today they came in to ask the court if they might have the record of the trial in which Anthony Dembrocki and Thomas Dineen were found guilty and imprisoned for their part in beating McDonald. That was the trial in which Thomas "Red" Curran was murdered.

Judge Russell H. Beaudreau told the jury that they must decide on the evidence in this latest trial. Less than a half hour later at 10 they had decided.

Wallace had become a father during the time he was hiding out from police, and his acquittal today gave him his first official opportunity to see his offspring.

NAMED 5 GANGSTERS. Patrolman McDonald was "ganged" in a Vinton at South Boston, speaking on Jan. 15 and hovered between life and death for several weeks afterward.

When he recovered sufficiently to talk he named five assailants: Gustin, Wallace, Francis P. Sullivan, Anthony Dembrocki, Thomas "Red" Dineen and a Bostonian named "Foggy" Dineen.

Wallace had a record of many arrests ranging from auto law violations to murder on two counts, but never was sent to prison.

The assault on McDonald aroused a police fury that quickly resulted in the arrest of Dembrocki, Dineen and Curran. Curran, a hanger-on the fringe of the gang, turned state's evidence and told police the story of the attack.

Wallace and Sullivan vanished Dembrocki and Dineen went to trial in March on a charge of murderous assault and were convicted on the strength of McDonald's and Curran's testimony. They were sent to prison for long terms.

Curran was held in jail for safe keeping, finally being transferred to Plymouth. Twice mysterious attempts to bail him were made and twice he expressed fear for his life. On a third occasion he consented to be bailed.

He vacated for a few weeks and then, it was learned, took refuge on a New Hampshire farm where he hid himself from police.

THE PRICE HE PAID. Three or four men called for him there in an auto early in May and a week later his body, bullet riddled, was recovered by a diver in a deep quarry pit in Quincy. It had been buried in a stolen car.

Curran paid the gang penalty for assaulting and slaying a fellow would never again accuse anyone.

On the night of the Sharkey-Carnera fight in New York, Wallace was seen in Times square by Special Officer Arthur Tierman and placed under arrest. He was held in $20,000 while the search went on for Sullivan. That ended with his arrest in Orlando, Fla., on Dec. 5.

The LUXURY of ROOM

PEOPLE like room. There is no doubt about that. They will pay money to get it, at a hotel, on a ship, in their homes. It is a luxury.

Man likes crowds but hates to be crowded. He wants room — elbow-room — hip-room — leg-room.

General Motors has designed its entire line for 1934 to provide MORE ROOM. This applies to Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Buick, La Salle, and Cadillac.

More room on the back seat — more length. More room for bags, packages, golf clubs. Room for a child to squirm or for larger persons to shift about.

With this great and simple improvement are combined two others — one which was the outstanding advancement of 1933, Fisher No-Draft Ventilation; and the other, which will be the most-talked-of development in 1934. Engineers give it a very technical name, but we have termed it "giving the car Knee-Action Wheels."

If you will look at the diagrams on the right you will understand why we use this simple phrase.

The effect of this revolutionary change is apparent in your first trip; every muscle in your body has a grateful sense of its value.

The bounce and the jar and the bumps — these the soft springs of the Knee-Action Wheels have banished. Shimmy and shake are out of the wheel; the car clutches the road with a faithful grip, and moves with a smoothness beyond belief. The word ride has always connoted, a certain degree of unavoidable effort and discomfort. In our 1934 cars you will glide.

HOW KNEE-ACTION WHEELS WORK

Your present car is stiff-legged. As it moves forward it is jolted by the bumps and soft springs. So when you hit a bump the front of the car bounces, the rear follows, and you are jarred.

The new car is a more comfortable. It has a more flexible, shock-absorbing wheel. The other leg is not so stiff. It is more flexible. It is more comfortable. It is more flexible. It is more comfortable.

Now, 1934 — no more bumps, no more jolts. The car is more comfortable. It is more flexible. It is more comfortable. It is more flexible. It is more comfortable.

As an interesting feature in illustrating the revolutionary change in wheel design, we have shown the fundamental principle of this new, unique, shock-absorbing wheel. Simply address General Motors Corporation, New York or Detroit.

86 CITY JOBS ARE FILLED

A total of 86 vacancies in the city payroll have been filled by Mayor Curley's appointment of 40 new firemen and 46 highway inspectors in the public works department on the eve of his surrendering the city administration to Mayor-elect Mansfield.

The list of appointments was made public last night by the mayor.

He stated all appointments had been made with the approval of the Massachusetts civil service commission and all men were drawn from the top of the lists following competitive examinations.

All new firemen, except one, have been unemployed, according to the mayor. The new positions will give them $1000 a year, minus the 10 per cent pay cut.

The 46 highway inspectors have been working temporarily for the city for the past two years. Their appointments were made permanent because of increased highway work under the CWA and PWA. The inspectors receive $1445 yearly.

3 MEET DEATH IN RAINSTORM

Rain, with a bare possibility of snow, and colder temperatures are predicted for today by weather officials in the wake of the northeast gale, which hit Boston and many sections of New England yesterday and last night, causing three deaths.

Two women in the western part of the state and a Malden man were victims of the storm.

They are: MULREADY, William F., 50, of Falloway, Malden.

SHAW, Mrs. Jessie D., 64, of Main st., Weymouth.

MORGAN, Mrs. Minnie L., 50, of Amherst.

Mulready was the victim of a hit-and-run driver a short distance from his home. The driver apparently failed to see him in the rain and darkness and then sped on after striking him. Mulready died on the way to Malden Hospital.

Mrs. Shaw was fatally injured at Lanesboro when the car operated by her husband skidded and overturned.

Mrs. Morgan was struck by an auto operated by Edward G. Doherty, cook at Amherst College, just after she alighted from a trolley car.

House Burns as Firemen, Siren Doze

Dracut, Dec. 21—Sleeping firemen, a siren which wouldn't whistle and freezing weather all contributed to about $5000 damage when the home of William J. Carville, former police chief, caught fire here early today.

One fireman, who doesn't sleep soundly, heard about the blaze and rushed to the siren used for arousing his fellow fire fighters.

But, alas, the horn had frozen solid and wouldn't work and the fire lashed itself on.

The Carville home was destroyed and the shivering inmates were given temporary beds by the firemen when they woke up later on.

MARKET BLAZE CAUSES TIEUP

Damage estimated at several thousand dollars was caused and Boston's entire market district was threatened for a time by fire, which broke out early today in the building occupied by the Quincy Market.

The blaze broke out in the boiler room in the second floor of the three-story wooden structure. It was discovered by John H. Newman, watchman, a half-hour before the market was scheduled to open. The cause has not been determined.

The blaze broke out in the boiler room in the second floor of the three-story wooden structure. It was discovered by John H. Newman, watchman, a half-hour before the market was scheduled to open. The cause has not been determined.

Damage estimated at several thousand dollars was caused and Boston's entire market district was threatened for a time by fire, which broke out early today in the building occupied by the Quincy Market.

Deerfoot Farm Sausage

MAKE Christmas breakfast important. Take more time to enjoy that tasty, appetizing goodness of fragrant Deerfoot Farm Sausage. And what a combination when it is served with griddle cakes, eggs, waffles or fried apples. Perfect harmony!

Only fine fresh pork is chosen for Deerfoot Farm Sausage. No trimmings or tough, stringy pieces. Just sweet juicy meat with the right proportions of fat and lean. And listen—this meat is chopped instead of ground or mashed in order that none of the juicy goodness is lost. As seasoned with our secret blend of spices a delicate flavor is always secured. No harsh taste—ever.

Try Deerfoot Farm Sausage today—at home or in a restaurant. Links or patties. Delivered fresh daily. Economical!

ONE OF THE JOLLIEST CHRISTMAS PARTIES will be the debut of Miss Alice Burrage this evening at a fancy dress dinner-dancing party given by her grandmother, Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, Sr., at her home, 314 Commonwealth ave., Boston.

Miss Burrage is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burrage, of Beverly Farms and Beacon st., and is the sister of Mrs. Forrester A. Clark (Kitty Burrage) who was presented two seasons ago at the "orchid ball" given by her late grandfather, Mr. Albert C. Burrage, at the Copley-Plaza, one of the most brilliant events of that winter.

Miss Alice will attend her presentation as a lady of old Venice, in white satin gown on bouffant lines, white powdered wig, three crowned hat and silver veil. She attended the Shore School and last winter studied in Paris. Many small parties have already been given in her honor this season, one a luncheon before the Harvard-Yale game and a dinner-dance at Manchester before the family moved to town for the winter.

Mr. Forrester Clark will serve as head usher at the debut this evening assisted by Messrs. George Clark, Nathaniel Clark, Thomas Davis, Lowell Dillingham, Herman Hayes, Herbert and Polly Gardner.

The girls attending the usher's dinner will be the Misses Nancy Whitman, Natalie Polson, Isabella Stewart Gardner, Margaret Stockton, Lorraine Young, Hortense C. H. Clark, Phyllis Forbes, Nina Phillips, Isabel Lawrence, Anne Sorvelli, and Out-of-town guests will include Miss Susanna S. Minton and Mrs. Forrester Clark.

Matrimony Lure Too Strong

MRS. JOHN C. ELLSWORTH, mother of the new bride, Mrs. Daniel Davis (Alice Ellsworth), whose marriage was solemnized last Saturday, will journey to South Bend, Mich., for the Christmas holidays. We hear that Mrs. Davis was about to accept a position on the stage in a dancing act but decided to take up the career of matrimony instead.

Tongues Wag at Social Error

COULD IT BE THAT BOSTON'S BEANS are so lacking in good taste that they gave a reception for a local celebrity recently to which the town's elite turned out and now the whole town's talking because no invitation was sent to the gentleman's good wife? We hardly believe it, but the tabbies are upsetting the social cream pot but it! And the lady in question did not attend the reception.

"Laddie" McMillan, Harvard senior son of Mrs. Contract-Bridge McMillan, is chaffing for President Conant of Harvard University... there are more ways than one of playing one's cards well.

Mrs. Herbert Lyman has sent out invitations to a dinner for Laura Dodge... "and dancing until eleven" is the way it reads... and then to bed, we suppose?

Edith Wolcott is in town and so is Charlie Deyens... puss-puss!

It was regrettable that Mrs. George P. Sturgis (Harriet Morse), was too ill to journey on from New York for her mother's Mrs. Theodore Brown's, dinner party before the Gardner's hall last evening.

The attractive Alvah Crookers (Nancy Ladd), will be staging a little nativity act of their own soon, 'tis seen in the stars. The March winds will wait Polly Proctor and Jack Blane chair to the altar, around the fifteenth, if we can believe all we hear.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL, by Charles Dickens, adapted by Daniel F. McKenzie, will be the presentation of the literary group of the St. Theresa Club, on Friday evening, at the Highland Club in West Roxbury. Local talent will be responsible for the production, with Mr. James Dunn arranging the scenery and Miss Nora Gill directing the incidental music.

Prominent in the cast are Roger White, Geoffrey Keane, Laureline Culliffe, John Roche, Jr., Anna M. Lord, Paul McKenzie, Francis Seltzer, Joseph Gough, Janet McKenzie, Daniel McKenzie, Mary Gough, Thomas Donohue, John Concanan, John Whiting, John Stenholm, Gerald Kowalski, Michael MacFarland, John Constance, Constance Gough, Dorothy Brooks, Isabel Jeffery, William Morgan, John Donovan, Jr., John Moynahan, William Markey, Katherine Kellner, John Faversham, Thomas Gough, Robert Ritchie, Kathleen Grady, Mary Keefe and Zetta Peters.

The production is under the direction of John Connell, stage manager, John Roche, William Nolan and Mrs. M. P. Gill. Margaret Brooks, Albert Denard and Mrs. M. Nott.

Miss Grace Brooks is president of the club, Mrs. Hugh Phinney, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Francis Brady, recording secretary.

Betrothals

Mr. and Mrs. David E. J. Purcell of Milton announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathryn Purcell, to Edwin Allen Newcomb, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Newcomb of Montclair, N. J.

Miss Purcell is a graduate of Notre Dame Academy, Mr. Newcomb, a student at Harvard School of Business Administration, is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The wedding plans have not been announced.

Mrs. Marcus Byrnes May of Winchester, announces the engagement of her daughter, Phoebe May, to Mr. Robert Griffith Thomason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Griffith Thomason of Melrose.

At Charity Fete

Among those having reservations for the bridge and what party, sponsored by the Regis College Guild at the Hotel Winthrop last evening were Mrs. George McCarthy, Mrs. Francis Donovan, Mr. George Moran, Mrs. Margaret Pierce, Mrs. G. Frank MacDonell, Mrs. George P. Kane and Mrs. William DeCoste. The proceeds went to aid the Tiffler Settlement House.

'the social whirl' With Dorothy Fry

MRS. WILLIAM D. SNOW, Jr., club, new president of the Garden City Club, is very happy over the new honor being conferred upon her. She is intensely interested in gardening. She appeared charming this evening at a social gathering at the Garden City Club, where she was the guest of honor.

The competition for the best conservation Christmas wreath was won by Mrs. Samuel Miller (Anne Williams). Her creation was a hollyhock wreath decorated with sprays of golden wheat and orange berries. Mrs. Hamilton Ogden won the first prize for the best arranged basket of fruit and vegetables. Ellen Whitney, looking altogether charming in a dark green tailored outfit, carried off third prize. The first prize in the table flower arrangement class was won by Floyd D. Grace with chrysanthemums and orange poppies in a peacock blue vase.

Isabel Porter with a tall crystal vase of Madonna lilies and holly sweet won the second prize while Mrs. Charles Smith of Weston won third prize for an arrangement of various colored chrysanthemums in a brown pottery vase. Saw blonde and attractive Alice Burrage, secretary of the Junior League, at the hollyhock party.

There were several other odds and ends which went to make up the grand total of $18,351.10, but none paid much attention to them.

The bride was born Margaret Hall Froust. Her father, who died in 1922, was a vice-president of Cities Service Corp. and Henry L. Doherty's sole partner at the time he paid much attention to them.

Her mother was the former Antoinette Perry of Danvers. She was a Broadway star prior to her marriage. She returned to the theater on the death of her husband as an actress and producer. In 1925 with Brooke Pennington she produced "Strictly Confidential," a smash hit.

A few days before the opening Murri Kirkland who had been named for the feminine lead in "The Girl Who Came to Stay" after a fruitless search for an understudy, Mrs. Froust finally gave the part to her daughter, then 16.

'NEW DEAL' FAILS TO LOWER COST OF DEBS' BRIDALS

This marriage business, even on a modest scale, is an expensive proposition, as thousands of Boston fathers can testify. It remained for 20-year-old Margaret Perry, Park ave. beauty and former Broadway star, to set the cost of marrying off the family daughter at exactly $18,351.10.

Of course, Miss Perry, daughter of the late Frank W. Froust, former partner of Henry L. Doherty, being in the upper bracket of New York's 400, went the limit when she married Winson Brown French 24 last October.

There was a smart ceremony at St. Bartholomew's Church, a wedding luncheon at the Park Lane Hotel and such things. But, at any rate, her honeymoon bill will give a rough idea.

HER GUARDIAN SURMISES She submitted it to Surrogate James R. Doherty, her guardian, under her father's will and custodian of her $525,000 estate. The learned gentleman scratched his head a bit, but today O.K. the expenditure.

Program to Aid Debs Prepare for Career on Radio

MRS. JOHN S. AMES, Mrs. Oris Bates and Mrs. J. A. Lowell Blake are interested in the "benefit" which is being arranged for the Lowthrop School of Landscape Architecture for Women to take place on Thursday evening, Jan. 4, in Jordan Hall.

Helen Howe, daughter of Mr. Mark A. De Wolfe Howe of Brimmer st., whose talents are well known to Boston society, will present a program of original monologues. Her recitals are always keenly anticipated.

Other prominent women interested in the benefit are Mrs. John G. Conlidge, Mrs. W. Endicott Dexter, Mrs. William C. Endicott, Mrs. John Wells Parley, Mrs. Henry V. Greenough, Mrs. Richard Walden Hale, Mrs. Henry W. Harris, Mrs. Louis Hunnewell, Mrs. Eileen James, Mrs. Roger R. Merriman, Mrs. Carlton R. Richmond, Mrs. Richard Salloway, Mrs. Pierpont Le. MacKillop, Mrs. Henry C. Vaughan and Mrs. Roger S. Warner.

Alumnae Visit at Brimmer School

The annual business meeting and basket ball game of the alumnae of the Brimmer School will be held at the school, 30 Brimmer st., Miss Constance Selman is in charge of the arrangements. Miss Constance Brett is captain of the alumnae basket ball team. Miss Mabel H. Cummings, principal of the school, will be hostess at an informal buffet luncheon.

Among the alumnae representatives who assembled at the school were Mrs. Charles S. Boarder, Mrs. Marjorie Paine, Miss Jeanne Bachrach, Mrs. William E. Kilham, Mrs. Frederick W. Lee, Mrs. Marion Perry, Mrs. Morton Smith, Miss Mary Louise Eddy, Miss Mary Bennett, Miss Charlotte Manning, Miss Allison Wright, Mrs. Alfred Thomas, Miss Mary Ferguson and Miss Sarah Woodland.

Group Retains Old Custom

The half century old custom of the Copley Society of holding a New Year's Day reception will be observed again this season on January 1 from 4 until 6 o'clock at the home of the society at 226 Commonwealth ave.

President Thomas G. Frothingham and the board of governors will welcome the members. Presiding at the tea tables will be Mrs. William Elliot assisted by Miss Barbara Bradford, Miss Grace Collier, Mrs. Louis Green, Miss Grace Nichols and Mrs. Odella G. Page.

For entertainment Mr. Franklin G. Field, baritone, will sing a group of songs accompanied by Mrs. W. M. Aron.

This reception is limited to members only, and membership cards for 1934 must be presented for admittance.

Christmas Carols Sung in Ely Office

Christmas carols dating back to the days of Queen Elizabeth were sung to Gov. Ely in his office at the State House, by the English Singers, three in all, in an unusual Christmas greeting. Cuthbert Kelly, bass, is director of the group, the women members of which were garbed in the gowns of the period.

Board Approves Clinic at Malden

Malden school committee has voted to accept a part of the program of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration for establishment of a pre-school clinic for children between three and six years old.

Society Notes

MRS. G. BROWNE HARRINGTON of Commonwealth ave. and Mrs. E. Cole Goddard of Beacon st. are recent arrivals in New York, where they are staying at the New Weston Hotel.

Plans are being made for the traditional open house on Beacon Hill on Christmas Eve and one of the first parties to visit is Miss Perry's Workshop which will be open from 4:30 until 10:30 that evening. The players are presenting "The Little Flowers of St. Francis" today, tomorrow and Saturday and next week on Dec. 25, 26 and 27.

Debs Prepare for Career on Radio daughter of the Arthur Blakes of Dedham, has been chosen by Jack Denny as the most talented of the girls who have appeared for auditions in the Salle Moderne of the Statler. She has sung there twice during the troupe Denny has been holding since he came to Boston, and this week she is singing every evening with the orchestra.

All applicants for the honor of being Boston's radio debutante, have made about 15 in their auditions, but only for the purpose of sending their voice out into the room. Miss Blake, will be the first to be heard on the air, and she, therefore, she is the title, as well as the week's champion. Later in the season the orchestra turns to New York.

Leslie Blake still feels enthusiastic about the plan, she will go to the metropolitan radio station, as last year's winner did.

The Byron sisters, Evely and Sally, and Miss Frances Holmes, debutantes of this season, have been chosen to sing next week. They are rehearsing "Gotta Go" and "Daddy's Little Girl" at last week's audition. Mr. Denny invited them to come in and do it, spelling the winner as it was the title, as well as the week's champion. Later in the season the orchestra turns to New York.

Artists Entertain at Rendezvous

Many of Boston's leading social lights who seek the unusual in the way of food and foreign atmosphere are making the Russian Restaurant, the Jar-Pitz, at 38 Fairfield st., their favorite rendezvous.

Two brilliant young musicians, Paul Conlidge, the young master of the violin, and Paul Dean, a noteworthy young pianist, entertain the guests each evening with Russian classics, folk songs and Continental music.

Mr. Conlidge studied under M. H. Bryant and Mr. Anton Witte, concert master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and he was the technique of a concert artist. Mr. Dean studied with Herbert Bringswald, formerly professor of piano at the New England Conservatory of Music.

Shepard Is Head of Radio Code Group

John Shepard, 24, president of the Shepard broadcasting service, which controls the Yankee Network, has been chosen as chairman of the Code Authority for the broadcasting industry. It was revealed today.

He has been acting as special industry advisor to the NRA in drawing up the new code.

WORK FOR YOUR HUSBAND?

Congress May Be Wrong on Rule

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

WITH ALL THE fuss about married women working, wouldn't you think the poor dears might be permitted to do their own husbands in peace? Who has a better right? It simply would never occur to an efficient and devoted wife that ANYBODY, even during a depression, could object to this virtuous and economical arrangement.

And yet trouble-shooters are training their guns on it, and it threatens to become a subject of investigation by the next session of Congress. Washington solons, even at a time like the present, have so few serious problems with which to occupy their minds that they must agitate the gray matter over the heart-searching question of whether a man's wife should make it her job in life to help him—actually.

"GRAPEVINE STUFF"
The grapevine stuff from the Capitol is that the "House of Representatives" is going to get right up in the Senate or the House—or maybe several of them—in such dignified assembly—and (like Hamlet's "To be, or not to be") what the Speaker of the House thinks is doing in making a statement of the secretarial service of Mrs. Henry T. Rainey or where the Vice-President gets off in providing for the labors of Mrs. John N. Garner.

It is even blithered that remarks made by the President's wife, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, by many of which she is her personal investigation of conditions among miners' families—her distinguished husband's comparatively immobile husband is aided in his writing.

Elita S. Hall, writing in Good Housekeeping, offers an eloquent and convincing defense of the First Lady's position, as follows:—
"If in this remarkable period, when he is, as she is said, 'his ear to the ground,' it is natural and not a calculated thing. Because she can go places he can't, and because of her artful expression, she can bring back to him as one who alone can, visualizations which result in benefit to you and me and all the masses of people who make up America."

BARKER IDEA
As Newton D. Baker said to Mrs. Roosevelt, when she hesitated because of the criticism of the chairmanship of the Women's Division of the Mobilization for Human Resources:—
"Why should the President be deprived of the services of the best qualified woman in the country for this position? Because, as 'appears to be his wife'?"

What we ask is why Mr. Garner, Mr. Rainey or ANY OTHER MAN should be deprived of the services of a qualified woman, "just because she is the wife of his wife?" When the Vice-President took office, his sweet-faced, motherly countenance was the first he was going on as Mr. Garner's secretary, she said, simply.

"Of course, I'm not egotistical, I hope, but I think that after twenty years, he has grown a little dependent upon me."
Who's behind the silly Congressional "hecklers" who expect to be hired to work for their husbands (or anybody else), who tell no one that they spin—their prefer to play bridge?

Fine Furs Are Thrilling Gift
(Authentic last minute fashions from New York—the center of America)

By VICTORIA GAINES
Purs—the Gift of Luxe.
For the gift de luxe, give the Little Woman fur this Christmas. Nothing quite equals the thrill of fine furs, and this year they're so inexpensive that almost anyone can afford them! A silver fox scarf or muff, for example, costs far less than a good wristwatch, and ermine wraps which used to be the exclusive property of the aristocracy have come into the moderate price class.

If you're doing the thing in grand style give her a mink coat, coat of course. A mink coat of beautifully matched fur for cravatism. Really stunning, and less costly, is a sleek black caracul coat with a smart silver fox collar.

FUR SPORTS COATS
If it's to be a simpler affair, a sweater sports coat of leopard or grey kidskin is a gift she can enjoy every day, without wear for "dress-up" occasions to wear it.

On a smaller scale are the fur accessories that also make charming gifts. We've already mentioned the silver fox scarf or muff—two of the smartest fur fashions this season. There's also the mink cape and muff to match, which is doubtless worn with a winter coat or a mink and a spring suit later.

Ermine pelisses, long or short jackets—are very popular for evening wear. They're also in vogue for the day. In the mink-shape muffs to match, that only ermine, which is a fraction of the cost of an ermine wrap.

And, of course, a two-skin set of sable or beaver marten is as regret-proof a gift as a string of pearls.

Cranberries Add Color and Zest

By MARTHA LEE

CRANBERRY SAUCE is almost a necessity on the Christmas dinner as the turkey, fowl.

Not only do they give their tart flavor as they supreme, but in their tangyness they give a cheeriness that greets the eye, inspires the appetite and makes the entire dinner all the better.

CRANBERRY SAUCE
1 qt. cranberries
2 cups boiling water
2 cups sugar
Boil the sugar and water together for 5 minutes. Add the berries and cook without stirring, until they are translucent. Five minutes' cooking over a hot fire is usually time enough to make sauce thick. Pour into sterilized jars and seal while hot.

CRANBERRY JELLY
(Eight pounds cranberries and 2½ pounds of sugar make 10 glasses.) Cook until soft the desired quantity of cranberries with 1½ cups (1 cup) of water for each 2 pounds (1 cup) of berries. Strain the juice through a jelly bag. Measure the juice and heat it to the boiling point. Add 1 cup (½ pound) of sugar for every 2 cups of juice. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Boil briefly for 5 minutes, skim and pour into glass tumblers.

CRANBERRY RELISH
1 qt. cranberries
Juice of 2 oranges
Rind of 1 orange
1 cup sugar
Put cranberries and orange rind through food grinder. Add orange juice and sugar. Let stand 1 hour before serving. Sugar may be increased, if desired.

CRANBERRY SHERBET
1 qt. cranberries
2 cups sugar
Juice of 2 lemons
1 cup egg white
Cook cranberries in water until soft. Add sugar and lemon juice. Force through a sieve. Add egg white and cream to a mink, using equal parts of ice and water.

Daily Suggestion for Self-Improvement

Have you the habit of sitting with one of your feet draped around a chair leg in the fashion? It's an ungracious mannerism.

Pandora Tells You

By Mrs. BECKMAN

Luxuriance and sophistication are subtly expressed in mink cape and muff and evening gown. I am wearing here.

An introduction for spring, the gown is of moss green, striped crepe, with a series of fan plaques from the knee down, the skirt cut to just below the left knee. A modified decollete is featured in the center high square neck and long-length gloves and muff in the same material.

An air of frivolity characterizes the juxtaposition of the gloves, which is in lightweight brown cloth, and the muff is lined with the same material.

Interchanging with the mink cape and muff, I like to wear a long-length gloves and muff in the same material.

Future In-Laws Call

By Mrs. BECKMAN

My brother gave his girl friend an engagement ring. Her mother did not call up to m. number. I told my brother that his future mother should call up first. Just who is right?

ANXIOUS
Your brother is right when he maintains that it is the young girl's mother who should make the first social move, after their son has told them of the engagement. You see, the idea is that the young man's mother and father come to see their son's fiancée to welcome her into the family. And the personal call is the thing to be done, not the telephone call. Indeed, as important as the visitation, it is that tradition decrees that should be made, if possible, within twenty-four hours after they have been told the happy news.

DEAR ASPIRANT
I am terribly afraid that there is nothing that I can recommend. The only time I ever attempted to improve the habits of an absent-minded husband, who used to walk around in insufficient clothing, I told him that I was going to call on him with a special knick. The result was that he once slept in a comical coat and a pair of socks.

Sylph Lines From Skillful Massage and Routine That's Like Play

By Therese Deschamps

HIP-HIP-HURRAH! I've lost three pounds... just where I needed to. Grand and glorious feeling!

How did I do it? Of course I'll tell you. Last week a marvelous new machine for reducing and redistributing weight (without diet) was born to gala with two curves or disproportionate figures) opened in Boston. I knew you'd be thrilled to hear about it. I visited the place and went through their course of treatment so it could give you first-hand information.

I found all sorts of grand equipment to make lovely figures possible. First of all was an unusual posture machine to reproduce a girl's silhouette, and show her precise and figure faults so she can concentrate on correcting them.

One young woman who had her silhouette taken was very surprised to discover she was way-backed. THAT was the reason her frocks never fitted smoothly. But a few corrective exercises will soon fix that up.

I got a big kick (you've no idea) out of their electric horse, which improves circulation, and develops poise and grace. The ruling machine is a little machine exercise a pleasant game. Then I had a whirl at the electric vibrator, which smooths away extra curves, and moulds flabby muscles firmly into shape.

Next came mechanical gymnastics. If you need them, and a few minutes in the grand electric cabinet bath to help melt away the unwanted pounds. This is followed by a spray shower, then pleasant massage by a skillful fingered masseuse.

All this takes only an hour or so, depending on how long a treatment you want... and, need.

When they told me the price for a single treatment or a series of five or ten, I thought I'd misunderstood, and asked them to repeat it slowly and distinctly, and they still said just about HALF as much as you'd expect. Incidentally, this includes everything with no "extras."

Only four can take a treatment at a time, and this insures your careful individual attention. The managing director, who is a physician, has thoughtfully arranged for the place to be open until 9 o'clock in the evening (by appointment) to accommodate working girls after office and store hours. Nice place!

I'm really very enthusiastic about the place. It is modern and attractive, and has up-to-the-minute equipment. All the attendants are carefully selected and selected from scores of applicants.

Want to know the address, and the amazingly reasonable rates at this grand reducing and re-conditioning salon? Just send along a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Therese Deschamps, Boston Evening American, 5 Whitworth St., and I'll send you the information free of charge.

Beauty Questions and Answers

Dandruff—Question—I am troubled with dandruff. It's very embarrassing and unsightly, though it isn't very severe yet. Can you tell me some remedy which will help? I hate to see white flakes on my shoulders when I wear dark dresses.—J. J. Boston.

Dry Shampoo—Question—Can you tell me the name of a light dry shampoo which can be used without water, and will not rub my waves? It seems to me I have heard of some such preparation, and I'd like to know what it is.—MISS B. J. Lowell.

Answer—Yes, indeed, there is such a preparation. It can be used between shampoos to clean the hair and scalp without ruining your waves. Send along a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this information, since I can't mention trade names in this column.

Bleaching Hair—Question—I am a faded blond with dark hair, have been using peroxide bleach, but have found that it hurts my hair. Please advise me direction or another good, harmless bleach. Do you know how the platinum blond bleach is made?—Mrs. J. H. Bridgeport, Vt.

Answer—I do not advise dyeing or bleaching the hair at home. Better to have a reliable hairdresser examine your hair and do the work. Changing from one bleach to another is like changing horses in the middle of a stream. It may be done only by an expert, since the combination of various chemicals may change the hair to a weird, unwanted color. You can have any reliable hairdresser give you a treatment.

A Dinner Party—Would you like to know how to serve a delicious dinner for six or more and do it gracefully?

This is only one of the interesting things we are showing you in the dinner classes of the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery.

There is no charge for admission to a dinner class, but, of course, enrollment is necessary. The class for young women and brides starts Tuesday evening at 7:30, Jan. 9, and the class for housewives starts Wednesday, Jan. 10, at 2 o'clock.

Home Gifts The Marry-Go-Round

By Helen Rowland

A MAN usually has to stop and think just how odd he'll be his next birthday. But a woman is more considerate. She knows her husband will give her for Christmas for something she really wants—and a man being wondering how he can manage to drop all the junk he'll receive into his neighbor's saloon.

This is the anxious moment, when a woman begins planning to exchange the sweet "what's new?" to a "please" she knows her husband will give her for Christmas for something she really wants—and a man being wondering how he can manage to drop all the junk he'll receive into his neighbor's saloon.

Looking for a husband is like Christmas shopping. Every girl starts out with a perfectly clear idea of what she wants, but nearly always winds up by giving up the struggle and accepting something she never dreamed of.

One thing that no man can understand is that the really A-B-C women who would prefer to "sit at home and read a lively, entertaining book" rather than to go out and spend a whole evening with a dull man.

A man may forgive a woman for taking Christmas Eve for double-crossing him—but never for being vindictive and "cutting" while he's going through that last gesture of masculine distinction—the morning shave.

No one man can wreck a girl's life these days. He can only chip a little piece off her heart and leave a few of her illusions about herself, but while a romance lasts, no woman wants to be the whole story—just one of the ensemble.

Feather Painting
London—Miss C. Salisbury, an artist of Ebury Court, Essex, and an expert in feather painting, is in the city. She has been painting feathers from various parts of the world are sent to her. She first has them specially prepared and graded, and then begins "painting" her feather. She has painted a specimen of Miss Salisbury's unusual art work.

Roast Goose or Turkey—

BELL'S PREPARED DRESSING
(Flavored with Bell's Seasoning—just add water)

THERE'S no two ways about it—a Christmas dinner without either roast Goose or roast Turkey wouldn't be so popular with the family. And, what's more—roast Goose or roast Turkey, done to a turn, needs a stuffing that has an appetizing flavor. That's just why we are offering women something brand new—Bell's Prepared Dressing. It is now on sale at your grocer's at fifteen cents a package, or two for twenty-five cents.

Bell's Prepared Dressing is all that any woman could ask for. Of course it is made with crisply toasted bread crumbs and given its zestful flavor by Bell's Seasoning. Buy a few packages and learn how good it is. Then you'll surely want it for the Christmas bird. You'll find it mixes wonderfully with hamburger and just about puts the finishing touch to roast shoulder of veal. There are many uses for Bell's Prepared Dressing and several times a week is none too many to serve it. It's ready mixed—no cooking—no fuss—no bother—just add hot water—that's all. Why not put it on your grocery list today?

EIGHT LIVER PATTIES
1 package Bell's Prepared Dressing
1 pound liver, cut in small pieces
2 cups water
16 Slice of Whole Cloves
¼ teaspoon Salt's Onion Salt
8 strips of bacon
Have butter put in hot water, melt, griddle, add water to Bell's Prepared Dressing and let stand 5 minutes. Combine with liver and onion salt. Form into eight patties. Wrap each patty in a strip of bacon. Bake in a hot oven with two cloves (place in baking pan) for 5 minutes. Bake 15 to 40 minutes in moderate oven 350 degrees.

PRICE CHANGES FOR LEADERS RUN NARROW

New York Dec. 21 (P. C.)—Shares for trading started on the New York Stock Exchange a smoothly narrow today. Trading was dull.

Price changes were mixed in the first hour, although the general tone was fairly steady. The number of issues met with light selling. U. S. Industrial Alcohols were buyers of more than 100,000. AMERICAN Commercial Alcohol, Consolidated Chemical and Celanese were easy. Rice, Wheat and Cotton higher. Prices prevailed in General Motors, Du Pont, U. S. Steel and American Telephone in late trading.

The dollar remained on an even keel in foreign exchange dealing, with gold prices up a fraction. Cotton, Wheat and Cotton higher and other commodities were undecided. Bonds were mildly mixed.

to stress the pickup in retail business indicated for the year. The figures indicated a total of about 20,400 for the year, which would be the lowest annual aggregate since 1924.

Ending saw changes mixed. Union Bag & Paper was up more than 2 points but late lost most of the rise.

M. J. R. Stronged over 2 points after it was announced action had been taken on the cumulative preferred dividend. Raychem's shares softened with Union Pacific.

General, Allied Chemical, Diamond Match, General Asphalt, General Food and United Fruit.

Sales to I. A. M. approximated

The market continued to idle in the second hour. Most changes were narrow. New York traction shares attracted mild buying. There was improvement in rails, including New York Central, Northern Pacific, Southern Railway and Illinois Central. Improvement here was evidently due to the belief that tomorrow's loadings report would show a gain of about 50,000 cars. Atlas, Pack and Union Bag & Paper, the two issues whose gyrations unsettled the market in the past few sessions, were quiet, with trading light.

Sales to noon approximated $70,000 shares.

In the third hour prices were still mixed. A. M. Byers extended his loss to four points. Atlantic Coast Line, Bohn Aluminum, Grant Delaware & Hudson and Reading lifted a point or so. Hazel Atlas was up nearly three.

International Harvester rose two and Crown Cork was off two. Pointethacks showed in Pacific Mills, Deere, Celanese, Amerasia, Atchafson and Atlas.

Shares to 1 p. m. approximately
640,000 shares.

Continued mixed in the fourth hour and changes ranged from fractions to slightly more than 3 points. A. M. Eyerle was down over 3 points, and Eyerle & Co. was down about 1 to 2 or more points appeared for Amerasia, Amec on Commercial Alcohol, A. H. H. of Illinois preferred, Celanese, H. H. and S. Industrial Alcohol.

Gains of 1 1/2 or more points were recorded by Atlantic Coast, Atlantic Coast, American Hudson, Diamond Match, Hazen, Atlas International Harvester and Texas Gulf Supply.

Shares to 1 p. m. approximately
710,000 shares.

Boston Wool Murt Prices Hold Steady

"Quite a strong demand is being received on some types of acoured woolsen, but greasy combed domestic wools are mostly rather slow. Mills are making numerous inquiries on the finer quality territory wools, but they are not purchasing sizable quantities. Asking prices are steady and fully firm compared with last week," says the Boston office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

GIVE HER SOMETHING SPECIAL!

"I am going to be the people who have made the country what it is," says Al Smith. Which would have been a more popular statement when the country was what it was.

And furthermore, the people who made the country what it is are the same people who made the country do what it's doing.

"And more courage, the brave Governor, the kitchen corner, 'as the quality of the food will make the difference between a good and a bad day'."

And Morris, the new President, is a new President.

Babe Ruth Finds Owners Turning A Cold Shoulder
Sluggers Meet a New Set of Values
As His Forces Fade
By AUSTEN LAKE

With the horizon of his personal boom in sight, Babe Ruth is finding that major league owners, who enjoyed so much pleasure from his dividends as a player, really regard him as a most over-extended laborer who has outworn his freakish talent for swinging his big, black bat against five-ounce baseballs. They are, in short, saying, "Yes, yes, we know about that, and very nice, too. But what else can you do?"

Thus, a name sort of startled shock that dozens of young college athletes stars whose names made headlines in the five star sport extra, have been graduated to go seeking jobs from influential alumni who used to boast of their acquaintance, and who suddenly take on a perplexed pucker and say, "I seem to recall your name but..." Babe and these current graduates have the same solemn innocence of the trials of workaday life which hitherto has been a combination of leisure and fun.

Of course Babe, unlike the ex-college athletes, has been pretty much responsible for his own prosperity over the last 20 years, or ever since he graduated from the ragmuffin stage to the sounds and smiles of his beloved baseball. But he has been paid outstanding sums of money during most of that period, a fair share of which now, due to having married an ex-college lady with a keen dollar sense, is invested in unobtainable securities and insurance foundations.

Babe Meets New Set of Values

I remember a little, wannabe graduate grocer from Peru who whose checks were the color and appearance of dried apricots, who told me one spring in St. Pete, "I am going out to see Babe Ruth, not that I am interested in baseball, but I want to see the man who makes more in six months of play than I have been able to save in a lifetime of hard work."

It must be hard for the Babe, whose smallest aches and pains have been a matter of nationwide interest, to understand the club-tougher in a lifetime of hard work.

HIS FINANCIAL SHAPE
The Babe played the best hockey of the season, and must have been the best player in the world. It was a fact in the game in which he was the only one to be hit by a ball. The Babe played the best hockey of the season, and must have been the best player in the world. It was a fact in the game in which he was the only one to be hit by a ball.

owners view that, after all, he is one of the game's pass hunkers, whose honorable callouses have no more commercial value. Of course, he still has a meager salary of $25,000 from the Yankees next year, but after that he may have to trim down his scale of living to a pious $10,000, less than half the sum that he used to cost for Christmas entertainment when he bought his dollar cigars by the cord and his silk shirts by the bale.

Babe says that he must have $100,000 scattered around the country in personal loans, items that he never bothered to jot down, and although Mrs. Ruth has often tried to stimulate his memory in the hope of rounding down some of these debtors, the Babes remain in a fuzzy and hazy no record.

Well there is a silver lining to Babe's new found leisure, in fact a double plus lining. Because it will give Babe and his Yankee understudy, Sam Byrd, the chance to achieve ambitions nearest to their hearts. For whereas Ruth, the game's greatest batter, has always craved to be a first flight golfer so that the idea has become an obsession, Byrd, the best golfer in baseball and one who can beat many of the top grade professionals, would trade his golfing talent readily for an equal portion of hitting skill.

Babe and Sam Can Exercise Their Ambitions

It has offended Babe's vast ego that the young, strapping weighing 300 pounds less he, can not only hit a golf ball straighter but hit it farther, and the hulking, putty-nosed slugger is fascinated by his inability to use his golfing tools with the same careless skill of the egg-faced youth, just as the latter tries to do paragon to copy the former with the implements of the baseball trade.

Slightly thwarted are both men, Ruth and Byrd, each yearning for the talent that the other possesses and neither with any prospect of attaining the heights that the other has scaled quite as a matter of course. Yet now, with Ruth's sandpaper legs bending under the strain, Byrd will have his opportunity to fill the great man's shoes, while Babe can afford more time for golf.

Those of us who never purified themselves out of breath to feel the costliness of a hero, know that the game of baseball owes nothing to Ruth, whose hitting career and heroic character were made possible when the leagues stimulated the ball secretly at their factory in 1920. That took him out of the hair undershirt, or red flannel class, and permitted him to scatter money like confetti and cater to his naturally jocular and generous whims. Perhaps it was due to this early consent, including his taste for violent warfare that is causing the owners to avert their eyes now that Babe is wagging his eyebrows suggestively, while searching for a manager's job.

Check, Mister Cunningham

Providence Reds are making their first Boston appearance of the season here tonight.

Lefty Grove's Value Proved in '33 Games Won' Column

By JOE CASHMAN

It's not the GREY HOUND that has been established about the 32-1 odds that Grove has won 32 games in 1933.
